To-day, however, the bulpit is not a force in the discussion of public affairs. Not out what it is equipped with as much courage, and as much eloquence, and as much learning as ever, but for some reason, which I have not now the time to discuss, the public do not accept from the pulpit its views upon municipal, State or National affairs. So we have left only the after-dinner platform. That is yet free from the chains of conventionality, custom or routine. At the annual dinners of the New-England Society, both in this city and in New-England Society, both in this city and in New-York; at the annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce, in New-York, men of National reputation, around whose words stand a name and a record which men respect, whose hips utter furths, let on the light in a way which would not be permitted anywhere else. So far is this permitted that among that most sensitive people, the Irish, that genial and caustic genius. Mr. Joseph H. Choate, indulged in utterances which were received with laughter and applause; uttered anywhere else Mr. Rhoate would have been compelled to leave the platform.

Mr a hoate would have been the platform.

I trust that for the sake of good morals, good government, good laws, good candidates, for the government and that goes to right living and right thinking, and right voting, the after-dinner platform may continue free.

AT ODDS WITH BISHOP WIGGER

CATHOLICS IN PATERSON TAKE A STAND AGAINST HIM.

The rent had been paid and the order for the opening of the hall was in the hands of the committee. The members of the committee thought there would be no trouble. They were taken ported by these whom they represent. The situation last night was: Dishop Wigger, who is the hend of the Young Men's Associations of the diocese and practically owner of the Institute Hall, says the building is not to be opened today. The committemen say they have closed a the hall, Bishop or no Bishop.

There is also a controversy between Bishop Wigger and the members of St. Agres's Council, Wigger and the members of St. Agrees's Colmen, Catholic Benevolent Legion. On March 29 there was a meeting of the council. At it the action of Bishop Wigger in the case of Dean McNulty was denounced by a number of the members. The sentiments expressed were loudly applauded. The following day an account of the proceedings. The following day an account of the proceedings was published in the papers. One of these accounts was forwarded to Bishop Wigger, and on April 6th he addressed a letter to James Herbert, president of the council, asking if the published accounts were true. Mr. Herbert replied to the effect that the published reports gave only a faint idea of what actually occurred and that they erred in not being strong enough. This letter failed to reach Bishop Wigger, and on April 14 he wrote another note to Mr. Herbert demanding a reply to his first note. In the closing sentence of the letter, Bishop Wigger threatened to take "other measures" if the ausser was not forthcoming at once.

Mr. Herbert then addressed a letter to Bishop Wigger and had it published in the local papers. In the letter Mr. Herbert sarcastically refers to the fallure of the Bishop to receive his first letter. As the mails are so unsafe and the postal facilities are so primitive, as he expresses it, he was forced to have recourse to the public prints in order to reach the Bishop. In addition to telling the Bishop that the published report is true and errs on the point of mildness, he says the words attered at the meeting in question are expressive of the sentiments of almost the entire population of Paterson, Catholic and non-Catholic. In regard to the "Taking other measures," Mr. Herbert tells the Bishop, if he meant that as a threat, and intended to frighten him or any one else, "you are barking up the wrong tree."

The writer then takes up the matter of Father Murphy and refers to the popularity of the priest despite the action of the Bishop in his

The writer then takes up the matter of Father Murphy and refers to the popularity of the priest despite the action of the Bishop in his case. The threat of the Bishop to excommunicate the members of the Catholic Club If they persisted in the prosecution of a suit brought against Father Smith, he says the club did persist, and the successful outcome of the suit was recorded as a part of the official records of the Passaic County courts. As to the interference with the right of free speech, which Mr. Herbert alleges the Bishop made when he made the threat to "take other measures," Mr. Herbert asks if the Bishop does not think he violated the Constitution of the United States. The letter does not mince matters, and it is thought some action will be taken by the Bishop to punish those concerned.

MOUNET-SULLY.

At Abbey's Theatre last night Mr. Mounet-Sully ended his first engagement in America. It began on March 26 and has lasted one month, and the dis-tinguished French actor has been seen in a round of parts, including Hernani, Ruy Blas, the Cid, King Edipus, and Hamlet. The attendance has not been invariably large, but it has been considerable, and the welcome accorded to Mr. Mounet-Sully has been that of esteem and cordial kindness. If he had appeared here earlier in the season, and in advance of other parties of French actors, he would have at-tracted more attention from the general public. The audience for foreign representations in this capital is limited, and it is capricious. Many persons of Mounet-Suily's performances, and have appreciated and honored them. He will be remembered as a romantic actor of great ability and exceptional grace His highest and best achievements have been Herafter the players had settled down and tried some scheming for position another wholesale slaughter was begun, both Knights and Bishops failing.

When play was resumed, however, it was easy for Lasker to find a way of winning on the King's side, with a majority of pawns on this side of the board, and after eight more moves the champion saw the uselessness of further fighting, and resigned.

Lasker thus wins five straight games from the veteran, and now leads him by seven to two games, two being drawn. As Lasker had scored three games in this city, the players will now finish the
